The Author Workflow

Preparation
- Author prepares manuscript for submission to an OUP journal.

Submission
- Author submits manuscript to an OUP journal via the submission site - most OUP journals use ScholarOne or Editorial Manager, to receive submissions and manage peer review.
- Authors must create an account in order to submit their manuscript via the submission site.

Review
- The manuscript is peer reviewed, in accordance with the journal’s peer review policy.

Acceptance
- The manuscript is accepted for publication, and the author notified that it has been accepted.

Production
- The manuscript is passed to our production team and a 6/7-character unique ID is assigned to it.
- The author is sent a welcome email, containing a unique link to our Author Services site.

Further information can be found in the Author Resources Centre:
https://academic.oup.com/journals/pages/authors
When a manuscript is received by us, the corresponding author receives an email welcoming them to OUP and instructing them on how to sign their licence.

Dear [AUTHOR],

Welcome to Oxford University Press. We’re looking forward to publishing your paper [TITLE]. (DOI) in [JOURNAL].

What you need to do now:

1. Register for an Oxford Academic account.
2. Choose your licence to publish.
   - Publishing Open Access? You may be eligible to publish Open Access using funding from your institution. Check whether your institution is listed here and follow the instructions before signing a licence.
   - Does your research funder require a specific licence type? Check here (or with your research funder directly) before signing a licence.
3. If you have selected an Open Access licence, pay any applicable charges.
   - Are you eligible for a society member discount? If so, enter your membership identification when prompted after choosing your licence.

Get started here.

What happens next:

1. In the next two weeks we will send you proofs of your paper. You will need to check and approve your proof within two working days.
2. If applicable, we will contact you about any further publication charges, which may include page and/or colour charges.

You can track the progress of your paper here.

Any further questions?

Please visit our author support pages, or contact us at jnls.author.support@oup.com.

Best wishes,

Best wishes,

Author Support Team.
The licences made available to the author vary by journal. Authors choose a publication licence for their article.

If a journal offers multiple Open Access licence options, these will be displayed to the author on this page.
The author is asked to confirm that they agree with the terms and that they accept responsibility for the payment of any charges.
Manuscript Copyright Agreement Confirmation

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Journal</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>DOI</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Title</td>
<td>Test Title</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Category</td>
<td>paper</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

You (OUP User) have electronically signed this copyright agreement at 2018-04-04 13:34:32 GMT.

Thank you for using Oxford Journals Author Services to sign your Copyright Agreement to Publish online.

Remember you can view your signed copyright agreements online at any time by visiting your personal copyright agreements archive within Oxford Journal Author Services.

To pay any relevant charges relating to your paper, or to claim or purchase issues or offprints, please click [Proceed] below.
Authors are given a breakdown of the publication charges for their article. These may include:
- Open Access licence charges;
- page charges;
- and colour figure charges
Authors are asked to confirm their correspondence address and to give the billing address and any associated information.
Authors are given a summary of the total charges and the information they have provided.

Once they confirm they accept the Charging Terms and Conditions, authors are able to pay charges online by credit or debit card, or to request an invoice to be sent by post or by email to the address they have provided.